Programs of Study in Fields Eligible for the International Post-Graduate stream (includes Express Entry option)

The current International Post-Graduate stream will be ending on December 31, 2024. The content in this guide is valid for the remaining duration of the IPG stream. The BC PNP will introduce new streams for recent graduates in January 2025 that will have new eligibility criteria. There will be no further updates to this list.

The tables below identify programs of study within the natural, health and applied sciences fields that are eligible for consideration under the International Post-Graduate stream of the BC PNP. Further details regarding the classification of these programs of study can be found on Statistics Canada's Classification of Instructional Programs (CIP) website. Please note that the lists below are subject to change.

Completing a program on this list does not guarantee a nomination under the International Post-Graduate stream. Inclusion on this list only means that a program is in an eligible field of study and is (or has been) offered by an authorized British Columbia institution. Your program must also meet all other requirements of the International Post-Graduate categories as listed in the BC PNP Skills Immigration and Express Entry BC Program Guide. For example, your education will not be eligible if it is a "distance education learning program." A distance education learning program means a program of study in which the majority of the credits earned by the student toward the completion of a program of study were earned by completing online courses.

Prospective students should also note that inclusion on this list does not necessarily mean that a program is currently offered. To confirm the current status of a program, consult the post-secondary institution that offers it.

Doctoral level programs at public post-secondary institutions

There are no restrictions on field of study for doctoral degrees that have been completed at public post-secondary institutions in British Columbia. However, regulatory or professional doctorates, such as Juris Doctor (J.D.) and Doctor of Medicine (M.D.), are not eligible.

If you have achieved candidacy in a Ph.D. program in any field of study at a public post-secondary institution in British Columbia, you may also be eligible. See the Skills Immigration program guide for more details.

Master's level programs at post-secondary institutions

The tables below identify master's level programs of study at post-secondary institutions within the natural, health and applied sciences fields that may be eligible for the International Post-Graduate stream of the BC PNP.

If your master's-level program of study is not listed in this document, it is not eligible for the BC PNP's International Post-Graduate stream. You may be eligible for the International Graduate stream.
